

AFGHANS
BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, July 8.—Over in the middle of Asia, in a most heterogeneous collection of bad lands in the world, back of the high mountains of northern India, fringing on the west the Russian empire, there is a war in progress.

Our erstwhile associates, the British, whose flag the sun never sets, are battling on the one side while on the other is the Afghan, the wild man of these wastes. As his way has gone into the world, he has now an excuse or not.

During the past century Great Britain has had to fight the Afghan three times, but now the situation is complicated by the possibility of a general uprising among Mohammedans, who resent the division of their land, and are said to be preparing for a holy war. On the other hand the Afghans have recently made peace advances which may soon result in a restoration of friendly relations.

Lies North of India.
Afghanistan, by the way, (in case you may mistake it for a breakfast food) is that country embracing about the same area as the combined states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, which lies to the north of India. It is mostly a wild stretch of barren mountain fastnesses, inhabited by hostile tribes, treacherous and scrappy. The hopelessness of such efforts, Great Britain has never attempted to conquer and annex their territory, but has been content to subsidize the Afghans and use them as an obstacle to Russian aggression from the north. To insure their good will in this respect the Indian government pays the ruler of Afghanistan $500,000 a year. Until three months ago everything was going smoothly. Then the Afghans could stand no longer. They simply had to break loose and start a scrap. Whether or not the Indian government, relieved of the menace of Russian interference, suddenly stopped paying its annual subsidy, or whether the Afghans were infuriated by the treatment of the Islam faith at the Paris peace table, is not known. But suddenly Amir Habibullah Khan, who had always been friendly to Great Britain, was mysteriously murdered, and his brother, Nasrullah Khan, placed on the throne. Nasrullah was known to be extremely hostile to the British government, so that it was with great relief that British officials learned a short time later that he had been deposed and that the murdered Amir's third son, Amanullah Khan, had assumed control.

Keller Doesn't Last Long.
The relief did not last long. For Amanullah's first act was to declare the complete independence of Afghanistan and to cancel its freedom by attacking the British forces guarding the Khyber pass—known as the gateway to northern India. Great Britain is now rapidly mobilizing its forces for a fight which is always a difficult and protracted matter. Of course, the Afghans are without such refined implements of war as howitzers, flame throwers and poison gas, but the British troops are unable to use these either, owing to the topography of the country, which makes transportation more a matter of luck than of intelligent direction.

The British ordinance must consist largely of light mountain batteries, hauled by mules, while in the narrow mountain passes bayonets are of more value than rifles. The British are bombing planes, with which, it is recently reported, they have greatly startled the Afghans.

The most disgusting aspect of a war with Afghanistan is that it never accomplishes anything. While a British reverse would undoubtedly have a serious political effect in India, especially since the recent rebellion in the Punjab, a British victory would probably only temporarily subdue the Afghans. It is particularly irritating because Afghanistan is one of the territories that Great Britain does not care to lose. It is so barren, so devoid of valuable resources, that she wouldn't take it as a gift. Now that Russia has lost her ambition for expansion, Great Britain, the Afghans alone, feckly willing to fight, are the only power that the Afghans themselves now refuse to be ignored. A belated nationalism is arousing them to action, and only are they asserting their Afghanism for the Afghans, but that a slice of the broad, fertile Indian valleys below them would not be altogether objectionable.

Respect Only Might.
The question of how it cannot be settled by a league of nations. Afghanistan is a feudal oligarchy which would not understand the 14 points at all. The Afghan respects only principle—might is his religion. He is a man of intellect. The poorest, most emaciated Hindu of the lowlands can beat him in a battle of wits, but as a warrior he is a coward. He is instilled in him from the cradle up, and he gets plenty of practice, because almost every Afghan family is engaged in some sort of deadly life in Afghanistan. At the age of six or seven the little Afghan boy usually finds out that some male member of his family has been murdered, and that his sole purpose in life is to avenge that murder. It even extends to the female members.

Thus a few years ago an Afghan was murdered on account of a land dispute. Somewhat irregularly, the case was taken into court, but because as the murderer's relatives were influential, the witnesses could be influenced to testify against him. The sister of the murdered man was the only relative left to avenge him. This sister left the country in a bitter and dangerous exile, such as are often seen in moving pictures.

"I can get no justice here," she said ominously, "but I will find a way."

The young woman found it a few days later on the occasion of the weekly fair when the city bazaar was filled with shouting jostling hill-men from the surrounding villages. She walked deliberately up to her enemy in one of the bazaars and fired a revolver point-blank into him. Calmly, she waited for the Afghan officials to arrest her, which they promptly did, and sentenced her to penal servitude for life. She received the sentence with an expression of satisfaction. "I have avenged my brother," she said. "I am content."

Sister Protects Honor.
The sister was inspired in this act, not by any great affection for her brother, but by a desire to protect her honor.

John E. Kennedy, member of the fire and police board, has been made defendant in a $10,000 slander suit, filed by Daniel W. Briggs, former member of the local police force, through his attorney, Charles Enslow. The summons and complaint were served on Kennedy yesterday by Sheriff Fred Beley.

The complaint carries three counts in which it is recited that Kennedy is alleged to have called Briggs a "drunken bum"; that Kennedy is alleged to have said: "He was drunk at South Janesville Sunday night"; that he showed his star and demanded beer; that Kennedy is alleged to have said: "Briggs was in Oliver Grant's saloon and Grant threw him out."

Wet-Dry Debate is Started

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, July 8.—Prohibition enforcement legislation as framed by the judiciary committee was made a special order of business in the house today by the rules committee with an agreement that general debate should not exceed 12 hours.

When the bill was laid before the house there were indications that a bitter fight would be made on the measure. It was agreed to limit debate.

Chairman Campbell of the rules committee, said it was thought wise to give more time for debate than that usually allotted to ordinary measures. The bill will be set aside tomorrow which is calendar Wednesday and its consideration resumed Thursday and Mr. Campbell thought it would be possible to reach a vote Friday or Saturday.

Says Bill is Crime.
Representative Pott said the prohibition measure made "everything a crime and unless it was amended in several important particulars troubles would begin as soon as it went to the statute books."

Representative Fess said the measure should be passed as soon as possible.

"Without legislation to enforce war time prohibition," he declared, "it will soon become as much of a dead letter as the 1918 amendment."

Representative Cantrell, appealed to the anti-prohibitionists to be "game sports and give the dyes a chance."

"I am in favor of making the bill rigid enough to satisfy every member of the Anti-Saloon league," said he.

Housing Bureau Proposed.
Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts announced today he would introduce before congress a bill creating in the department of labor of housing and living conditions. The secretary of labor would be empowered to complete by director of bureau at $5,000 per annum and all archives of the United States housing corporation and the housing and transportation division of the emergency apparatus not in active use would be transferred to the bureau.

Without discussion the senate adopted a resolution by Senator Newberry, republican, Michigan, calling on the federal administration for a report of passes issued in 1919 for transportation and parlor, sleeping and dining car privileges.

ANTI-JEW POGROMS TABOOED BY PEACE LEAGUE SAYS PICHON

(By Associated Press.)
Paris, Monday, July 7.—A group of deputies belonging to various parties have written to Stephen Pichon, foreign minister, expressing emotion over reports of pogroms, massacres, boycotts, and persecution inflicted upon Jews in eastern Europe.

"Information has been collected," the letter said, "shows there may have been some exaggeration, but it is certain that a foundation of truth remains which the Poles do not hesitate to recognize. We know with certainty that the Polish government defends the rights of all ethnic and religious minorities, but unfortunately owing to a lack of publicity of debates in the peace conference, France has forgotten her traditional role of defender of the oppressed, leaving their cause in the hands of other representatives at the conference."

In replying M. Pichon assured the deputies that the French government took the initiative at the beginning of the peace conference to insure a thorough examination of Jewish questions by the peace delegates.

His letter pointed out that it would be most dangerous to create special privileges for Jews.

"The league of nations will provide permanent protection," M. Pichon concluded. "Then French government is ready to render homage to the role played by the Jewish minorities but cannot allow it to be said that any preceded it in this direction."

Capt. Fryatt Is Paid National Tribute

(By Associated Press.)
London, July 8.—A national tribute of honor was paid today to the memory of Capt. Charles Fryatt, executed by the Germans in 1918 for attempting to ram a U-boat, by a national memorial service at St. Paul cathedral. After lying in state at the Dover station over night, the body arrived at Charing Cross station and was placed on a gun carriage drawn by blue-jackets.

At the cathedral the ceremonies were generally a repetition of those in memory of Miss Edith Cavell who also was executed by the Germans.

R-34 IS DELAYED; READY TO HOP OFF EARLY TOMORROW

(By Associated Press.)
Mineola, N. Y., July 8.—Major G. E. M. Pritchard, executive officer of the R-34, after inspecting the dirigible engines today said all repairs would be completed by 2 o'clock tonight and that fuel, water and other supplies would be taken aboard before midnight. With favorable weather he said the R-34 will be ready to start at daylight tomorrow.

Major Pritchard said the airship would take the southern track four or five hundred miles north of the Azores, in view of a favorable forecast of clear weather for the next 48 hours made by the weather bureau in Washington and received here this morning. For one-third of the course on the way over, he said, the R-34 probably would strike northerly cross winds which would not retard her much. The remaining distance, it was stated, favorable westerly winds would prevail.

KAISER'S TRIAL IN LONDON BINDING BY TACIT AGREEMENT

(By Associated Press.)
Paris, Monday, July 7.—The agreement reached by the allied council that the trial of former Emperor William would be held in London as announced by Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons last week was a tacit one, but from American sources it was learned late today that the agreement was regarded as binding.

What purports to be an authentic account of the incident in the council upon which the British premier based his statement has become available from a usually reliable source. It is stated that at a meeting of the council the British premier said to his fellow-conferes something about as follows:

"I suppose you have no objection to the Kaiser in London."

The premier looked around the circle, the account continues, and no one objected. Indeed, it is said, Premier Clemenceau gave his verbal approval. This tacit agreement was never recorded in writing and Sir Maurice Hankey, the British secretary, did not include it in his regular report of proceedings in the council. The assumption is, however, it was added that Premier Lloyd-George later had unofficial conversations on the subject with one or more members of the council.

Allies Back Finns' Attack on Petrograd

(By Associated Press.)
Paris, Monday, July 7.—Approval of a plan for a concerted attack upon Petrograd by Finnish troops and the forces of the Polish government at Omsk was given today by the Council of Five.

A joint note has been sent the military attaches of the United States, Great Britain, France, and Italy at Petrograd instructing them to support the Finnish government if it decided to accede to the request of Admiral Kolchak to assist him in the campaign.

There is no indication that the allied and associated powers propose to go further at this time in helping Kolchak's plan, but their action in supporting the Finns is regarded as equivalent to assurances that they will see the Kolchak movement carried through.

Bolshevik Leaving.
Washington, July 8.—Definite information that the bolshevik authorities are planning to evacuate Petrograd has been received in official circles here. Decision to quit the capital was said to have been violently opposed by some elements of the government.

Foreign Offices Occupied.
Helsinki, Sunday, July 6.—It is reported that all foreign embassies, legations and consulates in Petrograd have been occupied by bolshevik troops.

ITALY

A commission composed of four generals representing France, Italy, England, and the United States has been appointed to investigate the recent incidents at Plume. The supreme council of the peace conference has also decided to appoint a commission of four members to inquire into Norway's claims to Spitzbergen.

Tommaso Tittoni, Italian foreign minister and head of the Italian delegation to the peace conference, is anxious to have the Adriatic problem settled. Signor Tittoni has gone to Rome for conferences with King Victor Emmanuel. The particular reason advanced by the Italian peace delegate was the increasing friction between French and Italian troops in Plume and elsewhere along the Adriatic, further evidence of which has developed.

Signor Tittoni on leaving planned to be absent for three days.

AUSTRIA

The Council of Five decided to inform the Austrian delegation that their government would be permitted to call the league of nations as soon as it complies with the necessary conditions.

A decision of the council to devote further time to consideration of Austrian territorial questions has resulted in the Austrian peace treaty being held up after the printers had handed over the proofs. The boundaries question will be taken up tomorrow and it is stated that the treaty will not be ready for presentation before the end of the week.

NORWAY

A Norwegian note on war claims and the repatriation of Armenians were among matters considered today by the council.

The Norwegian note was one presenting claims for ships sunk during the war and damages for sailors' loss of life.

The matter of the repatriation of Armenians in Armenian Russia was referred to Viscount Marmor, British member of the committee on mandates.

GERMANY

Decision was reached today by the Council of Five to lift the commercial embargo on communications with Germany simultaneously with the lifting of the blockade. This decision will not affect the censorship on matters of a political nature.

PHILIPP BUSY; SIGNS TWO SOLDIER BILLS

(Special to the Gazette.)
Madison, July 8.—Gov. E. L. Philipp was the busiest law maker in the state capital yesterday. His record for the day was 6 bills which he finally approved.

Among the more important bills the governor signed are the following: Appropriating $500,000 for relief of wounded or disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines. Providing for recording free of charge the discharge certificates of soldiers, sailors and marines. Providing the necessary machinery for municipal acquisition of street railways.

Regulating the capacity, dimensions, speed and equipment of motor trucks, tractors, trailers and wagons and their loads and providing for the preservation of streets of highways.

The senate, after a week's adjournment, was to meet today to take up bills acted upon by the assembly last week.

One of the most important bills of these is the Metcalfe measure which provides for the sale of public lands purchased from the United States government food products, and for the sale and distribution of these products to consumers.

The federal government recently announced that it would sell to municipalities at a big reduction in price, a large stock of food products purchased for the army.

PRESIDENT'S SHIP DOCKS IN NEW YORK

FLEET OF WARSHIPS ESCORT GEORGE WASHINGTON INTO PORT.

CABINET OFFICIALS MEET EXECUTIVE

Fort Guns Boom Salute; Shrill Whistles Take Up Din.

(By Associated Press.)
New York, July 8.—The George Washington turned into her pier at 2:50 p. m. while the warships in her escort fired a presidential salute.

The George Washington docked at 3:30 p. m. President Wilson stood on the bridge with his wife and Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, smiling, bowing and waving his hand in acknowledgment of the cheers which greeted him.

New York, July 8.—Escorted by a fleet of warships the transport George Washington bringing President Wilson home from France passed quarantine and moved on to New York harbor at 1:30 p. m.

The George Washington had a clear way up the harbor. Police and navy patrol boats preceded the transport and her escort, sending up a salute with their cannon, rifles, and machine guns.

As the transport passed Fort Hancock, the guns boomed a presidential salute, echoed 10 minutes later by Fort Hamilton and Fort Wadsworth. The shrill whistles of harbor craft took up the din.

The President and Mrs. Wilson stood on the bridge of the George Washington as the vessel steamed slowly up the harbor to her pier at Hoboken, conveyed by destroyers and other craft of all descriptions. The salute of the transport was lined with returning soldiers cheering and waving their caps.

The cheering Pennsylvania hearing five members of the president's cabinet—Daniels, Baker, Lane, Glass and Wilson—led the way followed by the Oklahoma with the George Washington as a close escort.

Except for the wide lane through which the transport passed, the harbor seemed literally filled with a great crowd of well-wishers. A great number of the welcome also had assembled on the Staten Island shore and the New Jersey side.

In sight of the dirigible hovering over her, the George Washington came in sight of the Jersey highlands at 11:40 a. m. The president's transport is flying a huge American flag from the main mast and smaller flags on the fore and mizzen mast heads.

The leading destroyers of the president's fleet passed the leader of the welcoming fleet six miles southeast of Ambrose Lightship at 10:30 a. m.

The George Washington is coming over the regular transport route from the south of that taken by commercial vessels coming across the Atlantic and the first land President Wilson will see will be the highlands of New Jersey.

Escort Ship to Harbor.

Four dreadnaughts and 38 destroyers from the Atlantic fleet formed the escort that met the George Washington 20 miles east of Sandy Hook today. The presidential salute from these vessels was the first of the many welcoming ceremonies waiting the president on his arrival this afternoon.

In the harbor were 45 warships headed by the flagship Pennsylvania, with Admiral Wilson aboard, assigned to join the president's escort. Vice President Marshall and members of the cabinet were assigned to the Pennsylvania, while the city's welcome party, headed by Mayor Hylan, Governor Hughes, and the passengers and crew of the municipal steamers Patrol and Correction.

Unauthorized middlemen dealing in food will suffer similar punishment, it is said.

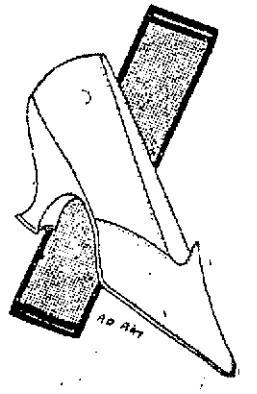

The dispatch states that a general strike was declared in Naples Monday. After looting outlying stores in that city a crowd attempted to reach the center of the palace but was prevented by the police who were occupying the principal thoroughfares.

WHO'S WHO in the Day's News

HARRY W. MAGER.
Harry W. Mager of Chicago, who has been appointed chief of revenue agents to supervise the administration of the liquor and narcotic law, is one of the central figures in the great prohibition campaign just launched by the United States government. He is in charge of the enforcement of the prohibition in so far as it affects the revenue service, and the prospects are that he will ultimately take over full control of this work with department of justice agents co-operating.
Chicago, South Side, was the birthplace of Mr. Mager less than 30 years ago. As a youngster he went to the James and the public schools, where he proved himself a good mixer, a good scrapper and a natural born leader among the boys of his age. His first job was in an undertaking establishment where he served as apprentice at the big salary of $3 a week.
But local politics, which absorbed energetic young men in those days, reached out and took young Mager away from this line of work and planted him down as secretary to the chairman of the county committee, who was John McCarthy. Here he remained for two years until on Dec. 1, 1914, he was given a job as deputy collector in the revenue service. It was not long before Mager began to make his name as a reporter of more delinquents than all the other divisions. Tax evaders were ferreted out with a neatness and despatch that opened the eyes of the officials in Washington, and it was this more than anything else that brought about Mager's present appointment. On May 1, 1918, he was made assistant chief of revenue agents and his appointment as chief of the liquor and narcotic laws has followed. His friends believe that if he follows the same methods now which he used in Illinois he will not only enforce the law, but eliminate much of the friction which would inevitably result from tactless handling of this big problem.

FIGHTING AFGHANS ARE BATTLING WITH BRITISH ONCE MORE

brother, but as a matter of family honor. When the number of deaths in both families are equal, they usually make it up, and the feud ends. The Afghans have an abnormal sense of honor, which causes him to do the most ridiculous things and gets him into one of trouble. He is always fighting to protect his honor and was to the person who treats it lightly.
A story is told by a British missionary, which shows that the Afghans and his honor are a point of honor. One of the many customs which honor makes necessary is the killing of a fatted calf as a mark of hospitality to visitors. Whenever the welcomed Afghans is blessed with the arrival of a guest, he rushes out into his back yard and kills a calf or a lamb and has it served for dinner. The poorer classes cannot afford to be so reckless, so they rush out and kill only a fowl or two.
One evening the missionary and his party arrived at the mountain home of a prominent Afghani, and were received by his son. His father, he said, was down in the village and would be back that evening. The son had a couple of fowls killed and prepared for dinner, after which the party went to bed. In the morning the father returned and learned of their arrival. When he discovered that only fowls had been killed for their repeat, he raised a dreadful fuss, reproached upon his son's head, and finally asserted that the only he could vindicate his honor was to have a calf killed anyway. So at 2:30 in the morning the missionary and his party were awakened from a sound sleep and requested to come and partake of another meal to which the fatted calf had contributed.
Another prevailing characteristic of the Afghani is bluff. On the other hand, he is strictly just and his admiration of brute force and power is beyond exaggeration. A number of times he has been known to do anything he likes with most Afghans. A British physician, a heavy, middle-aged man, was resting along the roadside one morning when a group of young Afghans discovered him. As a means of entertainment, one held a loaded revolver to the doctor's chest and explained that he was going to shoot him. The doctor never flinched an eyelash.
"You will be a great fool if you do," he said calmly. "You would as likely as not poison yourself with my drugs if I were not there to tell you to use them." The doctor received an apology.
From this it can be seen that the Afghani is not absolutely unregenerate. With their light cannot and bombing planes the British should not have much trouble in subduing the present generation of fighting Afghans. The only trouble is that by the time the present generation is subduing the British will have the work to do all over again.

Lincoln Letter and Old Sword Given to Illinois

Springfield, Ill.—An old Mexican-American war sword and a letter written in Abraham Lincoln's own hand, which have been added to the state collection of historical subjects. They have been presented to Governor Lowden by George Train Davis of Alton, grandson of Colonel George T. Davis, also of Alton. The letter was an aid de camp on the staff of General James Shields, noted warrior in the war America had with Mexico in 1846. He wore the sword through the Mexican campaign in which he aided in the rescue of General Shields when the latter was seriously wounded in the battle of Cerro Gordo. The Lincoln letter is one written to Colonel Davis on October 27, 1860, on the question of slavery. In effect, it reiterates Lincoln's unalterable opposition to the issue. The letter is marked "private and confidential." It is in a perfect state of preservation and the writing is easily legible.

Friday afternoon there was a gorgeous automobile parade, the officers heading the parade in automobiles. At night there was dancing at the streets, two hundred furnishing the parade, followed by $1,000 worth of fireworks. Postmaster Gustave Keller was presented with an automobile in recognition of his work as chairman of the Council of Defense.

NEW TOWN HIGHWAY SYSTEM PROVIDES FOR SUPERVISOR

By F. A. CANNON
Executive Secretary Good Roads Association of Wisconsin.
This is the third of a series of four articles covering the important highway legislation enacted by the 1919 session of the legislature.
There is a volume known as the Wisconsin Town Laws, published in 1917, containing 1470 pages, and here-in are contained the laws relating to town highways and bridges. The first were enacted in 1849, and they have been added to from session to session of the legislature since that time. The fundamental law of the state concerning the management of highway construction and maintenance is concerned. The change is an epochal one.
Under the old law, the towns were divided into road districts, averaging about six miles of road each, which were in charge of a road district boss, sometimes called a pathmaster. The law gave no authority to the board of supervisors to levy taxes for the purpose of providing for the construction and maintenance of town roads. The change is an epochal one.

Roads Supervised

His duties shall be to supervise the construction and maintenance of all bridges and culverts; to keep the highways passable at all seasons; and to make full and complete reports to the town board yearly or when required. Blank forms for this purpose shall be furnished by the highway commission. He may make arrangements for the appointment of as many foremen as needed.
The option of working out the road tax is eliminated, and the supervisors are required to levy and collect in cash such taxes as may be needed. All payments for work shall be by warrant drawn upon the town superintendent, and countersigned by the town chairman, and complete records are to be kept. Formal contracts are required to be approved by the town board.
This marks a new epoch in highway improvement in Wisconsin, and will undoubtedly mean a vast improvement. Iowa, Minnesota, and Illinois have abandoned the old law in Wisconsin have done so, and found they were saving money and vastly improving their roads.

MOVING PICTURE FUNNIES

Snakes Make Lovely Garden Ornaments, Is Specialist's Viewpoint

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
Los Angeles, Cal.—Spirits the snakes, they really make lovely garden ornaments. They have been recently misunderstood. Most of them are harmless. They have the most tremendous value in exterminating vermin and are much cleaner than birds to have around.
These are the observations of Dr. Cecil E. Reynolds, nerve specialist and psychologist, who spent three weeks in California, catching fifty snakes to take to his home in London.
Dr. Reynolds' special plea is for the king snake. This snake is absolutely harmless, very valuable and should never be killed, he said. As regards California snakes the nerve specialist said practically all of them are harmless except the rattler and the sidewinder.
"It is time we are getting away from our Apian fears of the snake," said the physician.
"Clearly we fear them. When we were apes the pythons were our greatest enemies and that inherent, instinctive dread and horror of the serpent has come on down to us through the ages."
"Women fear snakes more than men do because back in the cave age they were the ones who remained in the caves caring for the young, so you see they came in contact more with the snakes."
Dr. Reynolds plans to sail from New York with his collection of California reptiles in July. He says he plans to house them in the London Zoo until he has a chance to build a glass house for them in his own gardens.

Ski Champ Rescues Self.

La Crosse.—When a dam of the Kickapoo river, in the next county, went out a few days ago inundating thousands of acres of rich farm land and damaging crops, the former world's champion ski jumper, the man who taught the erstwhile Crown Prince Frederick William of Prussia and Prince Henry, the Kaiser's brother, how to use the skills, was forced to swim ashore from the top of a shipwrecked Ford automobile.

The man is P. H. Knudsen, who is now making his home.

The man is P. H. Knudsen, who is now making his home. He was John Morhausen of Milwaukee, a traveling salesman. Both men thought they could get through the water, it didn't look deep, but it came up over their lips and then they climbed on the top of the car. Knudsen swam ashore being a little fellow, but Morhausen, six feet tall, waded. Knudsen saved the world's little with a leap of 155 feet at Davos in Switzerland in 1916 and a short time after lost it to Ragnar Ormsted, now a well known American ski jumper.

Tanks Now Operating Against Bolsheviks in Far North Country

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
London.—Tanks have been received by General Denikin's forces fighting the Bolsheviks in the region of the Volga and Don rivers, according to information received here. Presumably the tanks were supplied by the British.
The first tank squadron, comprising three large land crawlers and two whippets, were put through maneuvering paces on the outskirts of Ekaterinodar, knocking down trees and negotiating steep ditches, much to the surprise of thousands of doubting Russians and to the satisfaction of General Dragomirov, Lukonsky, Romanesky and Filimov. The tanks, which can make 10 miles an hour, were sent to the front.
General Denikin, no doubt, will make ample use of the iron monsters in his offensive against Tarskian.

GILBERT ON STAND
IN N. P. TRIAL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jackson, Minn., July 8.—Pres. A. C. Townley of the national non-Partisan league will not be called as a witness today, his attorneys announced shortly before district court convened. Townley and Joseph Gilbert, a former league organizer, are being tried on a charge of having conspired to teach disloyalty during the war.

Gilbert took the stand for cross examination this morning.

Congressman J. M. Baer of North Dakota, a member of the Non-Partisan league, probably will be called by the defense today.

The much discussed war pamphlet of the national Non-Partisan league was prepared in September, 1917, for use in the congressional campaign in North Dakota, according to the testimony of league witnesses. Baer was elected upon the platform outlined in these resolutions.

While waiting to be called Congressman Baer has been making drawings of the court officials and attorneys for the league newspapers. He was working as a cartoonist at Fargo when elected to congress.

FERGUS FALLS RELIEF FUND STILL OPEN

Several Janesville people have been through Fergus Falls since June 23, when a tornado struck the city. They all say the same thing—that conditions are much worse than people realize. Three tornadoes hit the city, coming close together and ruining the city, especially the business section. Five hundred homes and stores were laid flat. A score of people were killed and thousands of people were left homeless. Fergus Falls, a Minnesota city of 7,000, tried to take care of the hundreds of homeless people but found it impossible and was forced to ask outside aid.

The Gazette started a fund to which $125 was contributed and then the contribution stopped. The fund is still open and all those who wish to help the unfortunate city may leave the money at the Gazette. Checks should be made out to the Gazette Tornado Relief Fund.

FEDERAL RAILROAD
OPERATION URGED

Washington, July 8.—Better results in transportation can be obtained by maintaining and approving federal operation than by returning "to old methods in whatever guise," Joseph E. Eastman, member of the interstate commerce commission, declared today in a communication to the senate interstate commerce commission. He was not a member of the commission when the commission's views on the railroad situation were given the committee last winter.

Mr. Eastman declared that federal control of the roads should continue to ensure necessary capital at low cost; to avoid unduly high rates; to solve the problem of the "weak" roads; to obtain the operating advantages which come from unification and to promote right relations with labor.

"Summing up the situation," he said

"there are grounds for criticism of operation and policy since the beginning of federal control. Most of these were products of the times in which we have been living and could not have been avoided. For some the railroad administration may properly be held responsible. But none of them justifies the conclusion that national operation is unsound, or that it ought to be abandoned."

Strike Affects Entire Swedish Merchant Fleet

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Stockholm, Monday, July 7.—The strike declared by the Swedish seamen's union and which began Saturday, is affecting the entire Swedish commercial fleet. The disturbances originated in the refusal of ship owners to accede to a demand for an eight hour day and a standard wage on ships under seven hundred tons in the Baltic and six hundred tons in the North sea. An arbitration commission has gone to Gothenburg to intervene.

POLICE!

Isn't it about time something definite is done toward procuring a qualified chief of police?

Isn't it about time that better arrangements be made, if only temporary, to afford proper police protection?

Three hold-ups have occurred in about that number of weeks. Up to the present time not a single clew points to the perpetrators of the crimes. We have a few new men on the force and perhaps they may make good officers. We hope so. But that does not relieve the situation to a great extent.

Saturday night a man was held up at the point of a revolver by two men who attempted to rob him of his money. He gave battle and got away.
At the police station yesterday a reporter for the Gazette attempted to get the facts of the case. Those in charge were either uninformed or did not care to give the report correctly.
The name of the victim was given as "Chase," while as a matter of fact the man's name was Peeney. Little light could be shed on the affair.
However, the Gazette dug up the story and told it as it is said to have occurred.

The police department has been disrupted for several weeks. The public has been patient. Efforts have been made, that is true, by city officials to obtain a chief. They were disappointed when Sergt. Mulcahy turned down an offer to act as head of the force. But that does not excuse further delay. It is said the Ilee board is considering applications.
Well and good. But it is time for that body to do something more than "consider." It is time for some immediate action to be taken.

A suitable man to run our police department can be found if induc-ments are offered. It is true that a man big enough to properly organize the department and get the results that we must have cannot be obtained at a wage which a clerk or teamster can earn. The people of this city are willing to pay for a man qualified to handle the job properly, rather than to have matters run along in the make-shift manner at which they are now proceeding.

The council is going to meet tonight in special session to discuss plans for an improved signal system.
It might be well to take up the matter of getting a new chief.
Whatever is done, should be done without further delay.

BUILD NOW!

Few people realize how far behind we are in building operations in Janesville. The Housing corporation is making progress and a private concern is building houses as rapidly as possible. Individuals are erecting houses here and there. But even with all these going at top speed we are going to find ourselves way behind next spring when business opens up.
In fact, we are so far behind in building now that we will have to strain every effort to catch up in the next few years because Janesville is growing more rapidly than appears on the surface.

Property values have increased; rents have jumped. Many persons coming to the city to make their home are willing to pay any price in reason for a place to live. The man with a lot and the means to build can surely see the advantage in erecting homes. Not only is it necessary to build homes to sell, but places must be built for renting.

Many have held off in the hopes that building material will be lower.
Those in close touch with the situation declare that prices cannot drop to former levels. Labor costs are higher. Demands for foodstuffs and building material will force the fundamental law of supply and demand to work. It is pointed out, in fact, that building costs have not kept pace with the increase of foodstuffs and labor.

People are making more money than they have in years and consequently are in a better position to pay a higher price for their home.

Let those who can, come to the front and build now, so that when the real emergency confronts us we will be at least in a fair position to meet it.

HELP THE SALVATION ARMY.

The local lodge of Elks start today to raise $11,000 for the Salvation Army Home Service fund. It is a worthy undertaking and should have the backing of every man and woman in the community. These Salvation people during the war won the hearts of our boys by their steadfast attention to their comforts. They did not conduct their work with a blare of trumpets nor did they seek publicity.
They just kept on the job and delivered.

Women and men gave their lives that our soldier could have comfort.
They worked unselfishly day and night. Now that the war is over, the mothers and fathers, sisters, brothers, relatives and friends of those boys have an opportunity to contribute to a fund which will allow the Salvation Army to further continue its work.

When the men who are giving their time to the collection of this fund call on you to subscribe, dig down deep in your pocket and give as much as you can.

President Wilson will find some changes in the country on his arrival today. The senate has its sleeves rolled up and is ready to pitch into some of the documents the president is bringing back with him. From present indications Wilson will be an exceedingly busy man from now until next election.

England has demonstrated that a lighter than air ship can safely cross the Atlantic in less than five days.
This is the first step in commercial aerial travel. The British are making even larger attempts than the R-34 and will be far in the vanguard of the United States would embrace the opportunity now to prepare for commercial air transportation she might rank second at least.

Cornelius Murphy, who has served the local fire department long and faithfully for many years, has been made chief with full pay by the fire and police board. Chief Murphy deserves the honor and responsibility conferred upon him and has the confidence of the citizens. He is to be congratulated upon his faithful service and his clean record.

It is reported that 10,000 Yanks have won French girls. This is another sign of America's consideration of France. Not only are our soldiers willing to fight on the fields of battle for her, but they are willing to fill the matrimonial gaps left by war's inroads.

We can look for the price of eggs to go up. An "egg king" from England has come to this country in the hopes of placing an order for 36,000 000 of the hen fruit. This is a tip for the American bidders to get on the job.

John D. Rockefeller is 80 years old today and hopes he will live to be 100. He spent the day playing golf and listening to a brass band. If we could all take life as easy as "Jawn", we would perhaps live to be 100 years old.

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Has-kin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information write a letter to the Janesville
Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by our bureau.

Q. How are soundings made to ascertain the depth of the ocean? What is its greatest depth? D. P. G.
A. A very fine steel piano wire is used in making ocean soundings. The cable is about 3,614 feet, about six miles deep. This hole in the ocean is near the island of Guam. A cable is fine and strong to support six miles of lead in making these soundings.
Q. Have outside parties ever possessed any interest in Marshall Field & Company of Chicago? R. S. V.
A. The only person who has ever owned any stock in this firm outside of the founder are Stanley Field, John G. Shedd, James Simpson, and the employees of the firm.

Q. What state has the greatest number of holidays? How many have Massachusetts and Rhode Island?
M. M. A.

A. Louisiana has 12 legal holidays with addition of each Saturday afternoon, which is the largest number for any state. Massachusetts nine holidays and Rhode Island 10.
Q. What is the origin of Dixie as applied to the south? C. A. R.
A. The term originated in New York where a certain man named Dixie owned a large number of slaves.
When the slaves were forced to live in the north they looked upon their old home as a paradise which they celebrated in their songs. They gradually began to call their southern home Dixie Land and, as such, became known among the whites and negroes.

Q. What is the difference between limited and incorporated when applied to a business? O. M.
A. A limited company is one in which the liability of each share holder is limited to the amount of his stock or share, while an incorporated company is one in which the firm formed into a corporation and recognized by law as having special functions, rights, duties and liabilities.

GRUMBLERS.

The way some fellows carry on Paul-Hindin' with the things they see.

You'd think that once they'd lived upon
A better world than this can be,
An' yet I notice all the time They're utterin' their loud complaints
They cheer show by faith sublime They've ever lived among the saints.

You'd thin k'to listen to them whine
That in some far off long ago
Another sphere where all was fine
It was their privilege to know,
Like foreigners that won't forget
The land they left an' claim to miss
They dwell among us all, an' yet
They know a better earth than this.

Whenever I am forced to hear
A man dissatisfied exclaim
That life is desolate an' drear,
An' full of bitterness an' shame,
When he is grumblin' at his doom,
An' movin' down the things of worth,
I'd like to ask him if he knows
A better an' a happier earth.

Is there among the million spheres
That swing about us night an' day
A world where all unknown are tears
An' only happy people stay,
That there the grumblers here recall
An' about they lived an' walked about?
If so, I'm not surprised at all,
The angels rose an' kicked 'em out.

AREQUIPA, PERU
Arequipa, Peru, has two titles. It is called the city in the shadow of the volcano, and it is also termed the most religious city in South America.

For the first, Arequipa is located—inconveniently it seems at times—literally in the shadow of Mt. Misti, a dying volcano. That Mt. Misti still has traces of its old spirit left is seen by the frequent earthquakes that shake the country for miles around, wrecking substantial houses and creating a general atmosphere of confusion.

Because of its liability to earthquakes, Arequipa is a one-story town with scarcely a house rising above the dead line of two stories. Arequipa will probably never be able to boast even a skyscraper, but it offsets the disadvantages of its village-like appearance by making itself as pictureesque as possible. Roso, pink, lemon, sky blue, and green are favorite tints of house paint substituted for the conventional brick red, and the patios are the romantic spots which South American courtyards are always said to be, but too often are not.

As for the religious side of Are-quipa, that is demonstrated by fiestas, holy days, and special masses so numerous that a day unenlivened by a celebration becomes memorable by contrast. There is very nearly a little church around every corner in Are-quipa, and a dangerously tall cathedral in the town square so that some ceremonial is in progress at all times.

Holy days are commonly celebrated by displays of fireworks which are the chief amusement of the small Arequipenos and seem to interest the more blase elders as well in spite of the frequency of the displays. Arequipa faithfully attends parades, flammacons, and cerefionales, and as a final proof of its fidelity to higher things enrolls approximately one out of every twelve citizens in its many monasteries and convents.

ville has opened an office over Hanke's harness shop, and a new undertaker from the same town, has followed him over here and opened an office next door, which may or may not mean anything in particular.

TOMORROW.
However dull the day may be,
However black the night,
Though all around the Sea of Life
There shows no beacon light, Yea, though you're tossed about with grief,
And nigh o'erwhelmed with sorrow,
Still think within your heart of hearts,
"Twill come all right tomorrow!"

For every bad there is a worse,
And at their worst things mend,
And whatsoever length the lane,
Twill turn before it end.
So, should you feel dissolate
From past experience borrow,
And say, "Twill oft 'twirl rain today,
And yet be fine tomorrow!"

Oh, never yield to doubt and fear,
N'er let your courage down,
For heaven awards to patient faith
Alone the golden crown;
Leave pessimists and such to say
The world's one sink of sorrow,
But cheerily say, "What's sad today
Will be, right glad tomorrow."

Admit of Engagements

Boston.—Engaged? That was the interesting question to which several affirmative replies were received at the senior banquet of the class of 1919 of the College of Liberal Arts at Boston university. Professor Dallas Lore Sharp prophesied that the majority of the class of 1919 would be married within a year or so. "This is the best looking lot of girls that I have ever stood up in front of," said Professor Sharp to the feminine majority of the seniors. "I believe in going, married early, and the sooner the better."

News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

Marion Davies, the effulgent young cinema star, after scarcely 13 months in pictures, manages to save the time to be an all-around girl. Miss Davies substantiates the mooted fact that actresses need not be affected. Her art matures, but she remains—very much the same girl that she was when she landed down her back, she secured an engagement in "Chin-Chin" three years ago when just 16.

Today she is one of the best known girls in pictures, and for almost a year she has been at the head of her own company. She began a year and a half ago in pictures, with "Runaway Romany," a gypsy story, which she did extremely well. This was followed by "Cecilia of the Pink Roses," a very elaborate production which started Marion Davies as a star in her own right. This story was followed by "The Burden of Proof," after which Miss Davies made "The Belle of New York," then "Getting Mary Married," and "The Dark Star," with Director Allan Dwan.

It is understood now that she will do only big features to be known as Cosmopolitan productions, and to be released, starting Sept. 1, by Famous Players Lasky corporation. These stories will include big material owned by the Hearst organization and appearing in their various magazines and publications.

Before Miss Davies went before the screen she became a well known Broadway favorite, having appeared in "Chin-Chin," "Oh, Boy!" "The Century Girl," "Miss 1919," and later as one of the best known beauties of the "Vogue" Polls.

She is barely 20 years old, lives with her family on Riverside drive, New York city; skates, rides, drives, motors, owns and operates her own airplane and is extremely democratic, girlish and unaffected.

THEY WERE ALONE TOGETHER—

It was the witching hour of midnight, the croon of the night wind and murmur of the waves against the rocks that hid them from the huge summer hotel were the music to which she had been skipping over the sands when first he saw her.

They were truants, these two, runaways from the treadmill of life. He had called and asked if he might join in her revel. Something in his voice reassured her. So they ran, and swam, and talked. Finally—"I dare you to dive off that rock," she said. When he came back she was gone. He had failed to learn her name or whence she came.

He haunted the beach nightly, without avail. She was the first woman, handsome, wealthy Roger Sloan had ever really wanted and failed to interest. He often passed her in the hotel corridors, but her maid's uniform and averted face masked her. Of course he finds her—

New Map of Europe Free

A NEW WORLD TO LEARN:

The geography that the man or woman of today learned in school is now as defunct as the works of Copernicus.

The boundaries of old nations have changed. New nations have been created—at least half a dozen of them.

At the same time every intelligent American has acquired a new and keen interest in Europe. He is watching civilization go through the greatest and most sensational changes since the fall of Rome. He reads the European dispatches with no less interest than he gives to the news of the world series.

He gets down the old atlas and tries to follow the plays in this mighty game of nations. But he cannot. Conquest, revolution and diplomacy have made the old map a back number.

YOU MUST HAVE A NEW MAP—a map which shows Europe as the War and the Peace conference have fixed it.

Pieces of Eight

Being the authentic narrative of a treasure discovered in the Bahamas Islands in the Year 1600—now first given to the public.

By RICHARD LE GALLIENNE.

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co.

So there I lay, oddly content, in the dark—the pungent smell of the earth my only sensation, and my head uselessly clear.

The remembrance of what had happened began to grow in force and keenness and, of a sudden, the thought of Calypso smote me like a sword! Spurred to desperate effort, I stood up on the instant and leaned against a rocky wall. Miracle of miracles! I could stand. I was not dead, after all. I was not, indeed, so far as I could tell, seriously hurt. Badly bruised, of course—but no bones broken. It seemed incredible, but it was so. The realization made me feel weak again, and I sat down with my back propped up against the rock, and waited for more strength.

Slowly my thoughts fumbled around the situation. Then, as by force of habit, my hand went to my pocket. God be praised! I had matches, and I cried with thankfulness, out of very weakness. But I still sat on in the dark for a while. I felt very tired. After thinking about it for a long time, I took out my precious matchbox, which unconsciously I had been hugging with my hand, and struck a light, looking about me in a dazed fashion. The match burnt down to my fingers, and I threw it away, as the flame stung me. I had seen something of my surroundings, enough to last my tired brain for a minute or two. I was at the bottom of a sort of crevasse, a narrow cleft in the rocks which continued on in a slanting downward, chasm into the darkness. It was a natural corridor, with a floor of white sand. The sand had accounted for my coming off without any broken bones.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair growth was coming, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 65, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair. No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, ointments, and hair restorers, I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had a secret which he assured me would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. To my surprise, it grew into a healthy growth, and in a long time my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

Now I am astonished and happy in expressing my state of mind. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I hastened for and came into possession of the medicine. I prepared this mysterious elixir, and the recipe put into practice. From recent photo. The hair which grew was permanent as has been amply proved. I have my own hair growth was permanent as has been amply proved. I have my own hair growth was permanent as has been amply proved.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

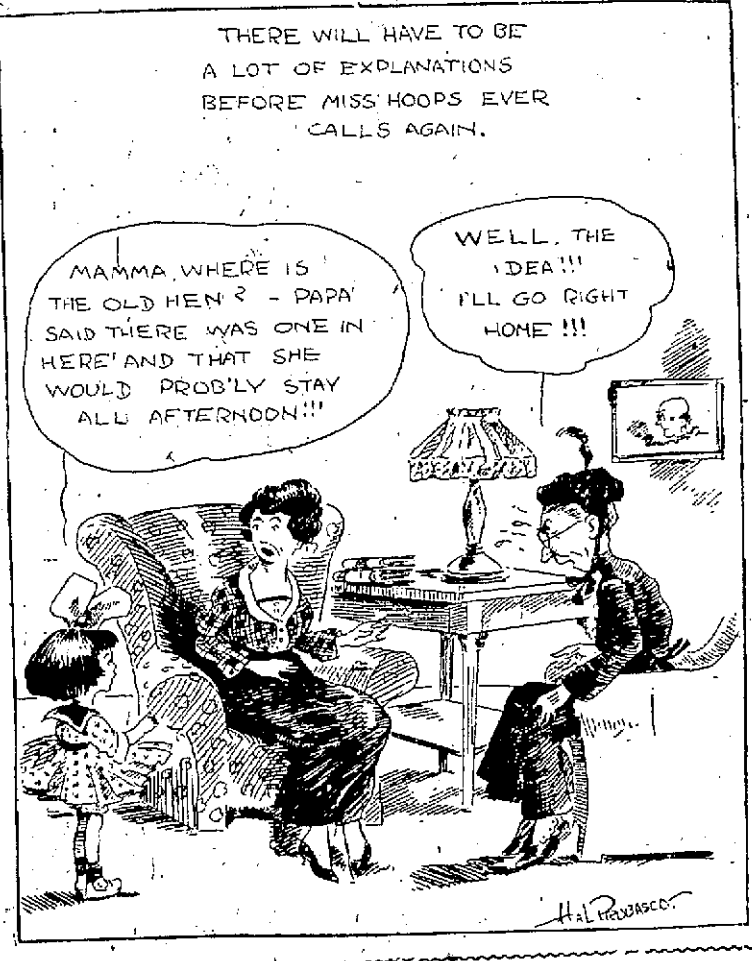

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in the scalp, waiting for the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I hastened for and came into possession of the medicine. I prepared this mysterious elixir, and the recipe put into practice. From recent photo. The hair which grew was permanent as has been amply proved. I have my own hair growth was permanent as has been amply proved.

comfort. It was hardly likely that caverns of such extent had waited for me to discover them. They must surely have been known to Teach, or whatever buccaneer it was who had discovered the ruined mansion not so very far above ground.

I set about the more carefully to examine every nook and corner. Two iron staples imbedded in one of the walls, with rusting chains and manacles attached, were melancholy proof of one of the uses to which the place had once been put. Melancholy for certain unhappy souls long since free of all mortal chains, but for me—need I say it?—exceedingly joyous. For if there had been a way to bring prisoners here it was none the less evident that there had been a way to take them out. But how and where? Again I searched every nook and cranny. There was no sign of entrance anywhere.

Then a thought occurred to me. What if the entrance were after the manner of a medieval oubliette—through the ceiling? There was a thought indeed to send one's hopes soaring. I ran in my eagerness through one cavern after another, holding my lantern aloft. That must be the solution. There could be no other way. I sought and sought, but alas! it was a false hope, and I threw myself down in a corner in despair, deciding that the prisoners must have been forced to crawl in as I had—though it was hardly like jollies to put themselves to such inconvenience.

I leaned back against the wall and gazed listlessly upward. Next moment I had bounded to my feet again. Surely I had seen some short, regular lines running up the face of the rock, like a ladder. I raised my lantern. Sure enough, they were iron rounds set in the face of the rock, and they mounted up (ill I lost them in the obscurity for the cave here must have been forty feet high. Blessed heaven! I was saved!

But alas! they did not begin till some six feet above my head, and the way was sheer. How was I to reach the lowest rung? The rock was too sheer for me to cut steps in, as I had done farther back. I looked about me. Again the luck was with me. In one of the caves I had noticed some broken pieces of fallen rock. They were terribly heavy, but despair lent me strength, and after an hour or two's work, I had managed to roll several of them to the foot of the ladder, and with an effort of which I would not have believed myself capable—had been able to build them one on top of another against the wall. So, I found myself able to grasp the lowest rung with my hands. Then, fastening the lantern round my neck with my necktie, I prepared to mount.

The climb was not difficult, once I had managed to get my feet on the first rung of the ladder, but there was always the chance that one of the rungs might have rusted loose with time. In which case, of course, it would have given way in my grasp, and I should have been precipitated backward to certain death below.

"After the war there'll be a great rush of curio collectors to the battlefields of France," remarked Senator Lodge, "and in no time at all the fields will be as bare of relics as some old farms in Massachusetts I have visited."

"Well, we used to," he admitted, "but now we don't find anything but golf balls."

Sam and Rastus were seated in a Jim Crow car on a southern railway, en route to a plantation for the cotton picking season. They were discussing politics, with particular reference to the coming state elections. Rastus was a rabid partisan of the incumbent representative.

"Well," said Sam, "Ah likes him all right. Ah guess, but his platform ain't no good."

"Platform?" snorted Rastus. "Platform! Say, nigger, don't you know dat a political platform is jes' like a cat on one of dose yore railroad cars—hit ain't meant to stan on; hit's jes' meant to git on!"

Jackson came tripping merrily into his tiny hall one day, and almost spoiled his merriment by tripping over someone's shoes left lying about.

"Whose ferrymen are these in the hall?" he asked later when he entered the drawing room.

"Ferrymen?" his mother-in-law cried angrily. "Why, those are my shoes!"

"My dear, good ma," Jackson said hurriedly, "who said ferrymen? You misunderstood. Ferrymen, you know—ferry boats!"

And then he wiped the sweat from his brow.

War On Potato Bug Consists of Good Care

The potato bug is the worst enemy of the potato grower but it is easy to destroy and cannot exist in gardens or fields well cared for. If neglected or carelessly attended to, a field of potatoes may be completely destroyed in a few days' time.

With the large number of spray machines now on the market no gardener grower can afford to allow his crops to be destroyed by insects or diseases. Spray machinery is a sound investment. Spraying is easy and can be quickly done with no great amount of effort so that the vines can be kept free of bugs at all times. Even the smallest garden patch should be dusted or sprayed with poison to kill the potato bugs. Gathering the egg masses or handpicking the grubs is an unsatisfactory practice and seldom results in efficient protection.

Carelessness in the application of spray will result in not killing the grubs. The grower must see that the equipment is such that the spray is forced on to every part of the plant. The liquid in the tank must be kept well stirred or the poison will settle and only a small part of it reach the plants.

Destroy Grubs Early.

The beetles pass the winter in the ground or under old leaves and rubbish and appear in the spring about the time the vines begin to grow. Mating occurs on the vines and the eggs are laid in masses on the underside of the leaves. The young grubs hatch in a few days and, making their way to the terminal shoots, feed on the tender leaves. In this stage they are easy to kill and if destroyed soon after hatching they have very little opportunity to do serious damage to the plants. If allowed to feed and grow they rapidly increase in size and soon become full-grown. About the latter part of July they have eaten all they can and crawl to the ground where, after burrowing in for an inch or two, they change into beetles. These beetles in turn appear about the first week in August and are often more abundant than the spring beetles and cause a great deal more damage.

What and How to Use.

Paris green has for so many years been used against the potato bug that many growers will continue to use it, but experiments conducted by the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Stations at Waukesha and Hazelhurst, as well as Madison, show that arsenate of zinc and arsenate of lead, properly applied, are just as efficient in killing potato bugs as Paris green and it is not necessary to use any larger quantities to the acre.

A material known as Bordeaux zinc paste is also a satisfactory spray but is more costly than the ordinary home-made combination of Bordeaux mixture and poison. Arsenate of zinc used at the rate of two pounds to five gallons of water or at the rate of one pound to five gallons of water will give good practical results. Hydrocyanic acid arsenate if pure will give just as effective results as Paris green and will not in any way injure the vines. Allowing for the variations of the different brands on the market, this poison should be used at the rate of two to three and one-half pounds of the powder to 50 gallons of water. If Bordeaux mixture is being used for insect disease or for beetles, these poisons can be added with Bordeaux in the proportion that water is used. Cal-

Kalamath Falls, Ore. A dog chased a cat, the cat climbed a pole, two horses were killed, a fire alarm started and one man was made penniless, and all because the dog saw the cat. Here's how it happened:

A prowling feline disturbed the slumbers of Tige. He chased her up a telephone pole and, posing high on a cross arm, she switched her tail in anger. Her feline paw was on a wire. Her tail touched another. A fire alarm was started. A transformer was burned out and a fire alarm turned in. All the male residents of the town jumped from their beds—twice in the dead of night—and dashed madly around many yards of garden hose searching for the fire.

Newport All A-flutter, Countess Soon to Come

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Newport, R. I.—Newport's villa colony was in a flutter of interest yesterday when it was learned that Countess Szechenyi, formerly Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, is coming to the United States when the peace treaty between the allies and Austria is signed. She will visit her mother, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at the Breakers.

The Countess Szechenyi was last in the United States about seven years ago.

In January, 1915, the alien property custodian took over nearly $9,000,000 worth of stocks, bonds and property owned in this country by the countess. At the same time the various properties of the Countess Anton Sigay, a sister of Mrs. James W. Gerard, were seized.

The Countess Szechenyi was one of the most enthusiastic war workers in the Austrian Red Cross. Her husband, a Hungarian nobleman, was turned into an orphanage, with 300 inmates. To them, the countess became known as "Mother Gladys."

"You are somewhat late, Mr. Caplan," began the master. But Caplan interrupted.

"It's a boy," he explained, "weight nine and a half pounds."

"Ah," said the court, rubbing his hands. "I understand, but don't let it happen again."

Sing Sing Has Not Proved Confining to This Bad Man

New York, July 8.—Chester Yates, who robbed Aaron Bancroft of $87,000 in money and securities at the entrance of the Produce Exchange vaults in 1912, escaped at the time that he was being taken to Sing Sing, has been captured.

Warden Edward V. Brophy of Sing Sing received a telegram recently from Chief of Detectives R. E. Phillips in Kansas City Mo., that Yates had been taken there under the name of Charles Shaw on another charge. The Kansas City police say they identified the prisoner as Yates by his Sing Sing photo and Bertillon measurements.

Chester Yates.

Does Robbery Job.

The Bancroft robbery occurred on March 2, 1912. Bancroft, an elderly broker, was walking along a dim passageway with an envelope containing the money and securities in his hand. Yates and a companion, Charles Ross, bumped into him and knocked him sprawling. With great politeness Yates picked up and returned the broker's hat and cane, but substituted an envelope stuffed with paper clippings for Bancroft's envelope.

The robbery was discovered when Bancroft went to the vaults again two days later. The police were especially watchful of the robber's escape, because the act took place below the "dead line," but did not get a clue until Dan O'Reilly, a lawyer, offered to get the stolen property back for a reward. O'Reilly was arrested, charged with receiving stolen goods. Yates' arrest soon followed. O'Reilly was sent to Blackwell's Island for three months and discharged.

Judge Bullock sentenced Yates to 21 years in Sing Sing. His escape on Dec. 18, 1912, after serving four months, was the most mysterious in the annals of the prison. The morning he got away there was a heavy fog and, for that reason, Principal Keeper Connaughton posted extra guards. Yates is said to have disappeared while Keeper Barnes was taking his company to the mess hall for breakfast. No one ever found out what method of escape he used. Three minutes after it was discovered, the big prison while screaming the alarm, but guards and posses of citizens searched in vain.

Is Returned, But Escapes.

Yates was not heard from until Oct. 27, 1915. Warden Osborne then received word from Superintendent of Police Reynolds of New Orleans that Yates was under arrest there on a charge of bank robbery. When identified Yates went, confessed and said he was eager to return to Sing Sing and serve out his sentence. Twelve days later he feigned illness, got transferred from a cell to the prison hospital, sawed a window bar, squeezed through an opening six by 13 inches, dropped to the coping floor below, ran along the coping till he reached a point opposite a waiting taxicab and jumped down. The police say a woman who visited him in jail provided the saw.

Yates was the reputation of usually "working" with a woman. The same is true of Reynolds Forshey, who is regarded as Yates' tutor. When Forshey was in the Tombs Yates had the same cell to his. The day Forshey sawed the bars and made his jump to freedom he also sawed the bars to liberate Yates, but the guards discovered the plot before Yates could follow his tutor. Forshey had escaped from the Tombs, Sing Sing, Clinton and Ansonia. Yates had escaped from six prisons.

Yates wanted to see Cleveland again. Since the Forest Hill mansion of Rockefeller burned down a year ago the aged millionaire had had no Cleveland "home." His friends got busy immediately and as one of them expressed it, they had "a device of a time" locating a roof "neath which John B. could rest his head after a strenuous game of golf.

It is a fine indication of the pride which our citizens take in that organization, the whole amount being raised yesterday with the exception of $15. The flag will be presented as soon as it can be made up and will be as fine as one as is carried by any company in the west.

This is Your Chance BUILD NOW

WE'RE turning people back from the gates of our city because we have no place for them to live. To the man who says, "I want to live in your community. I want to produce. I want to contribute. I want to share with you," we answer, "Move on. We're filled up. We have no housing accommodations." As he passes on, we all lose.

To industries who would locate here, we turn a deaf ear. We have no place for their workers to live.

Do you realize how strained our housing conditions are? Construction has been suspended two years. This is your chance!

BUILDING PRICES are low: they have not kept pace with necessities of life. That's why building prices will not drop for years.

You can build now and get a market for your house, or rental that is unprecedented. You'll probably never have a chance to build again when there's such a demand for your house, apartment or store.

Materials are available: for the first time in years you can get lumber, brick, tile, and all the necessities of life. What an opportunity—just what you've waited for all your life. This is your chance!

BUILD NOW. says the Government. We must feed orders to our factories, feed work into the hands of our producers if we're to maintain our prosperity and successfully bridge from war to peace.

Building is the quickest way—we're two years behind the country over. Construction calls for production of every kind. Public works help tide over this crucial moment at once. It is vitally important—but private construction important.

Your $10,000 contract will be split into sub-contracts for materials and labor, clear through the fabric of industry. It will help re-establish the nation. This is your chance! Buy now.

IF THE PEOPLE in this town who have deferred building plans until "after the war," and those who intend to build will only act now, we'll get a building program under way in this town that will relieve conditions, build permanent wealth and prosper us all. As a city we will do our share in Reconstruction—as individuals, we'll make money.

Other cities, facing the same situation, are meeting it. Why can't we? What we need is concerted action. It's a business opportunity—it's your chance. Seize it—sign your contract today.

BUILD NOW! REPAIR NOW! PAINT NOW! BUY NOW!

Janesville Chamber of Commerce

A Romance of Rock-a-Bye

Look along the mile-stones of the years, and back there, in a sort of "apple-blossom-time-in-Normandy" haze, stands one gleaming day, the day of your first baby. It was a trying enough time, old scout, with the confident doctor, the cheerful nurse, the sober neighbor-lady, and one nervous husband pacing the kitchen floor. Then came the fateful minutes while you were left out in the lonesome. Suddenly, and with machine-gun incessancy, a new voice smote your ear. The nurse came out smiling, the doctor later appeared and gave you a nod of confidence, and neighbors passing by paused and smiled congratulations at the house as that persistent, lusty-lunged wail told that there was a new baby at the Livermore's.

Remember how glorious all the rest of that day seemed, with the fellows all calling you "Dad"? Well, you can live over again some of that bygone bliss if you will only light up a Senero, the cigar of pleasant memories.

"The Cigar of Pleasant Memories"

Janes Will Have To Play Real Ball To Win Sunday

By George McManus

FANS ADMIT FOOTVILLE HAS SOME BALL TEAM

FANS ADMIT—SPORTS—"We are going to beat that Footville bunch if it's the last thing we do this season," said Manager James A. Murphy of the Janesville team today in speaking of the coming game with the White Sox at Footville next Sunday afternoon. "I have an appreciation of real ball players, together now and if we can't win that bunch I'm ready to quit the game."

With Sam Longquist due to leave for the Janes should have little trouble in winning despite Footville's three shut-out victories in the last three weeks. Either Crouke or Rice will don the big wind-jad and mask—the chief has not decided which—but it is practically a certainty that Longquist will be on the hill.

Webster, a Belleville hope, who has been doing great work for the Sox lately, is slated to pitch for Footville with Silverthorne on the receiving end. This battery is believed by village fans to be unbeatable and they are willing to cast their shekels—lots of them—on this combination. Webster has a world of action and a good assortment of benders which he mixes up well enough to keep his strike-out record higher than the average hurler.

A new umpire has been secured by Footville so Manager Silverthorne assures the Janes a square deal—something they feel they did not get the last time they invaded the village and lost by a score of 11 to 3. The new arbitrator—a bird named Libby—hails from Evansville. He has been umpiring all of Footville's games the last month and is said to have given satisfaction to both sides.

That it will be one of the hottest games ever played on the village lot is the belief of all fans and the biggest crowd of on hand to make things doubly exciting. Footville rooters from the country-side for miles around will be on hand using their best efforts to worry the Janes. Longquist, on the other hand, is expected to have worked for a Janesville team, guarantees to keep his head. Footville batmen will find him to be a different pitcher; that is, he will be a different pitcher than the one who pitched against them last time until he was yanked in favor of Eick.

A good sized delegation of Janesville rooters will be on hand with plenty of cash, according to certain Ed Winslow and Henry Keuck will surely be on the job. The trip to the western village will be made in the Myers hotel bus, leaving here at about 12:30.

LEADING OAR CLUBS IN DULUTH REGATTA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Duluth, Minn., July 8.—At least six leading rowing clubs of the United States and Canada, and possibly ten, will compete in the big after-the-war Northwestern Rowing regatta, to be rowed over the course of the Duluth boat club, on St. Louis bay, Duluth, Saturday.

Ottawa Rowing Club of Ottawa, Canada; Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago; the Century and Western Rowing clubs of St. Louis; the Springfield Rowing club of Massachusetts; the Peoria Yacht and Canoe club of Peoria, Illinois.

The Vesper and Undine Boat clubs of Philadelphia have been asked to compete and it is considered certain that one of them would be represented. An effort is also being made to bring on the New York Athletic club and the Metropolitan boat club of New York.

Many of Duluth's former star blade men have returned from war and the local club champion crews have been in the water daily since the ice broke up in the spring.

JESS FLOORED SEVEN TIMES, MOVIES SHOW

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Toledo, July 8.—All doubt concerning the number of knockdowns Jack Dempsey scored in the first round of his heavyweight contest with Jess Willard, July 4, was removed today when motion picture exhibitors exhibited a picture showing that the dethroned champion was sent to the canvas seven times.

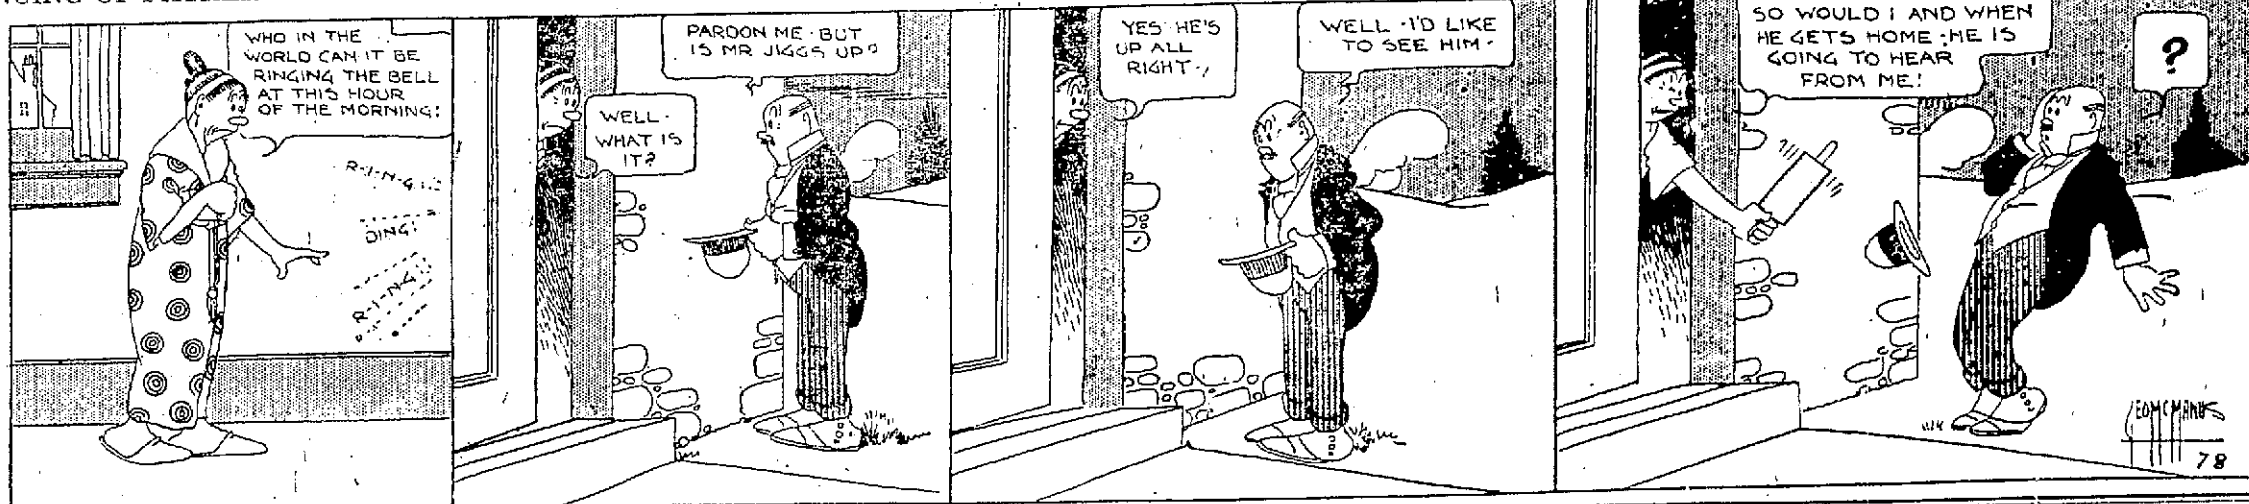

There were no knockdowns in the remaining two rounds, but Willard, probably would have been floored if the ropes of the ring had not supported him.

Dempsey, the pictures revealed, floored Willard when he left hooks to the chin for the first four knockdowns. He upset the defeated champion for the other three knockdowns with right and left swings. The first blow that upset Willard was a short right swing to the heart followed by a left hook to the chin.

Albany, N. Y., First in City Airplane Landing Field

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] Boston, Mass.—Members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce have been invited to alight on the municipal airplane field any day, time they happen to be flying over Albany, N. Y. The invitation was contained in a letter written by Charles M. Winchester, president of the Albany Chamber of Commerce to President Harry L. Harriman of the Boston chamber. The letter was brought here by the "Phoebe," one of the seven airplanes that landed at Franklin Field, President Winchester called attention to the fact that Albany was the first city to establish a municipal landing field. Another letter brought by Lieutenant Plumb was delivered to Secretary James A. McKibben of the Albany chamber. It was from Roy S. Smith, executive manager of the Albany organization.

Boy 'Gets Even' With Hen, But Barn Is Damaged

Overbrook, Kan.—When the five-year-old son of Clarence Albright, a farmer near here, went to the barn to hunt eggs, a hen pecked at him from the nest. The boy, desiring to get even, got some matches and set the nest on fire.

The fire got the hen off the nest, but the fire spread. An alarm brought many neighbors, who managed to save the barn, although the contents were badly damaged.

CAMELS are as delightful to your taste as they are new. And, so satisfying that they meet every cigarette desire you ever have had.

Camels are unusual; in fact they're unlike any cigarette you ever smoked. That's because they're an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobacco, producing a quality that meets your taste as no other cigarette ever did.

Camels' expert blend gives that mellow-mild-body and frees the cigarettes from any unpleasant cigarettey aftertaste or any unpleasant cigarettey odor. You can smoke Camels as liberally as you like without tiring your taste.

You have only to get personally acquainted with the expert Camel blend to know that you prefer it to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

For your own satisfaction compare Camels with any cigarette in the world at any price!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

UMPIRES HAD IT SOFT—THESE PLAYERS COULDN'T RITE 'EM

Group of big league players and one of umpires who participated in first "masked" ball game. Below, Carl Sawyer, with masked mascot's mask on dog.

What is believed to be the first masked ball game ever staged was played recently at Pasadena when the Pasadena and Standard Murphy clubs clashed. Every player, both umpires and even the mascot wore fu masks. The game went eleven innings. Many of the fans who rooted hollered through their linen masks, too. The upper photo shows many of the major league celebrities who played. From left to right the players are: Trash Hennah, N. Y. Americans, catcher; Doc Crandall, Boston Nationals, pitcher; Chic Gandil, White Sox, first base; Art Griggs, Detroit Americans, second; Fred McMullen, White Sox, third; Ole Olson, Brooklyn Nationals, left field; Carl Sawyer, New York Americans, shortstop and center field; George Cutshaw, Pirates, second base and right field; Bill Piercy, New York Americans, pitcher; and "Buster" Crandall, mascot. The lower picture shows Carl Sawyer with Buster Crandall's dog.

Schooner Sets Sail For New Golden Fleece

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] San Francisco, Cal.—Voyaging to the far north in search of a new golden fleece is the "silver ship" Casco, the schooner that bore Louis Stevenson to the South Seas. The Casco of this expedition derived their hope for gold from Miss Lillian Thrall, who is to become the bride of one of them—identity unrevealed—upon the Casco's return.

The Casco sailed for Siberia the Arctic river.

Miss Thrall has known of the existence of rich placer beds on the Siberian river for a long time. The man interested organized the Northern Mining and Trading company.

Captain C. L. Oliver, a former navy officer, is in charge of the Casco.

Wheat Is Cut For Hay; Rain Causes Rank Growth

[SANK TOWNSHIP, ILL.] Beatrice, Neb.—Because of the rank growth caused by the extreme wet weather, 40 acres of wheat on the farm of H. Fishback, living east of here, was cut for hay. Other farmers report they may do the same.

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE

Accepting public interest as the barometer by which the popularity of sports is recorded, the high level of attendance at all sporting events this season indicates excellent weather ahead.

The crowds which have gathered at baseball games, horse races, boxing matches, golf and tennis contests, college and athletic club meets and other sports competitions have been larger than the followers of such events have seen for many a year at least, and the present season is heralded as the greatest epoch in sporting events thus far in the twentieth century.

Practically every sport was stifled by demands of the war, both on the players and on the public. With peace, all the components which helped put sport on the shelf were removed. Men coming back from service were eager to continue their outdoor life. Golf, for instance, is growing in popularity with tremendous strides, and thousands of returned soldiers are now among the club swingers. Women, too, who during the war were actively engaged work and now feel the need of some recreation which will profitably occupy their time, have taken to the Scotch game.

Buschall also has felt the tremendous force of the popularity wave which has pleasantly engulfed all sports. Record-breaking crowds are attending the games.

Larger crowds than at any time during the past ten years are watching the horse races in the east. The average daily attendance, exclusive of persons, runs to more than 10,000 persons. While in the past decade special races have drawn greater crowds, the sustained attendance at the tracks this season is much bigger than for any year in the last 10. The largest crowd was estimated at 25,000, at Belmont Park on Memorial day.

"Pike's Peak or Bust," was the half-comic, half-tragic legend carried by the prairie schooners crossing the great plains back in '49. Pike's Peak, then, meant gold. If you didn't find it, you "went bust."

Pike's Peak is there today—more than 14,000 feet altitude—and other equally impressive peaks of the Rockies—Longs and Grays, Buckskin and Ouray, Spanish and Culebra.

And great ranges of mountains, too—Saguache, Sangre de Cristo, San Juan, Uncompahgre, Wasatch, Uintah, Quairrh—noted in song and story.

But now you go there in luxurious trains, on rails of steel. You go for the gold of renewed health, the silver of vacation rest. There is no possibility of failure, no going broke. Everywhere you find a multitude of wilderness outing joys, just around the corner from resort hotels. And, if you search for it, the fabled pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.
